

The Fluency Trust Courses 2017

Group Therapy for Children and Teenagers who stammer Age 10-17 years

The advantages of group therapy are well known in enabling individuals to reduce feelings of isolation and access diverse possibilities in managing disabilities.

Young people who stammer often feel isolated as they do not always have the opportunity to meet others of their age group who stammer.

The Fluency Trust set up residential therapy courses for children who stammer in 1995 in order to meet the need of bringing young people together.

Our outcome data shows the positive impact of the courses showing progress in respect of each of the course aims and positive shift on the individual's personal aims scale.

This course is available to children outside of Swindon.

- Over 33 hours of intensive group speech therapy
- Residential course provides intensive speech therapy combined with outdoor activities to increase confidence and self-esteem.
- 10 hours of parent workshop/support sessions

'Thank you for everything! It was an awesome experience for me'

'Many thanks, as parents we now have the tools to move forward and help him. He also has the confidence to move on'

'I am more fluent, I am confident, happier and it is easier to talk'
